

Redefining retirement for Boomers: Make Your Retirement A Time to Give Back

Gone are the days when retired seniors simply withered away after a productive life at work for decades. With increased life expectancy, need for independence and the desire to give back to society, the elderly are redefining retirement. Boomers have one advantage in their journey over the younger generation: Experience.

We at Sharda University wants to tap that experienced talent in our pursuit to be a global center of learning and is therefore looking for senior researchers/scientists/academicians/veterans/industry experts (details given as under) to realize a stimulating and flexible learning environment for our students as well as faculty by leveraging academic research with strong industry linkages.

In this regard, applications are invited from meritorious and performance driven luminaries from Premier Research Organizations, Leading Science Academies, Judicial Services, Public Sector Companies, IT Sector, Automobile Industries, Media Groups, Film Making Institutions, Real Estate Sector; either placed or retired at senior level from below mentioned Corporates, Institutions, PSUs or any other leading equivalent organization on Weekend/Part time/Full time basis for skill development, training, teaching and research:
